Intern position vacant
in the field of companion animal anaesthesiology

Starting date: September 1st, 2022

Job description: A full-time intern position in the field of anaesthesiology, attached to the Clinical Department of Companion Animals. This position may be suitable for a candidate who is interested in enrolling in a residency program and who is seeking more experience in companion animal anaesthesiology.

The Clinical Department of Companion Animals ensures the operation of a hospital receiving first-line cases and cases referred by the profession as well as a continuous emergency service (24 hours a day and 365 days a year), which represents a total of approximately 15,000 cases per year). In addition, it provides basic clinical education for veterinary medicine students and training of graduates in various veterinary medicine specializations recognized at European level. Further, the clinic supports clinical research in various fields of veterinary science.

Required Qualifications:
The candidate will have to:
• Be a graduate in veterinary medicine
• Have the right to be registered or to be eligible for registration with the Belgian Veterinary Order
• Have good clinical experience in anaesthesiology of companion animals
• Having completed at least one year of experience in clinics

Clinical and teaching skills:
• Combine clinical skills with the ability to transmit these skills to students
• Organizational competence
• Adaptability, initiative and motivation
• Ability to make shared decisions, solve problems and deal with conflicts
• Interest in scientific research and the willingness to develop a research project in a field relevant to clinical anaesthesiology

For more information, please contact Prof. Charlotte Sandersen (Charlotte.Sandersen@uliege.be). The application file will include a curriculum vitae, a cover letter, and 2 letters of reference. candidates will be contacted for an interview. The application must be sent by email (including reference letters) to Nadine Fis (nadine.fis@uliege.be).